

CLINICAL VERIFICATION OF LESSER KNOWN DRUGS

Hari Singh*

Summary

Clinical verification of the pathogenesis in respect of fifty-eight lesser known drugs as available in various reference books has been carried out on a number of patients. The drugs selected for the programme include indigenous drugs (in use in the Ayurvedic system of medicine) and drugs proved under the aegis of the Central Council for Research in Homoeopathy, New Delhi. The symptoms of various drugs verified in large number of patients have been picked up to indicate reliable indications of the drug, fulfilling the long felt need of confirming the scanty and scattered symptom-complexes of the lesser known drugs.

The additional symptoms obtained during the course, the drug(s) were verified upon the patients have also been compiled, thereby broadening the spectrum of pathogenesis of these drug(s).

Certain surrogates among the indigenous drugs have also been observed, such as Abroma augusta folia for Bryonia alba, Cassia sophera for Rhus-tox, Aegle folia/marmelos for Nux vomica, etc.

Introduction

The pathogenesis of any homoeopathic drug needs to be repeatedly verified clinically in order to qualify as valid and reliable for subsequent therapeutic use. Thus, clinical verification of drug pathogenesis is as important as original proving of drugs on healthy human beings. No successful prescription can be made on the basis of them unless they are verified clinically. This becomes even more important in case of drugs which are either new entrants into the Homoeopathic Materia Medica or not extensively proved and therefore, their complete drug pictures are not available.

Clinical Verification not only provides help in confirmation of available data but also enlarges the pathogenesis of the drug by the additional symptoms evolved during the course of intake of drug, which may be included in the Materia Medica after subsequent verification of the same.

In view of the importance of clinical verification programme, the Central Council for Research in Homoeopathy, has since its inception undertaken it as a long term project and three units have been established at Ghaziabad (U.P.) (1979), Vrindavan (U.P.) (1984) and Patna (Bihar) (1985) dealing exclusively with clinical verification research. Apart from these units this programme has been assigned to Homoeopathic Drug Research Institute, Lucknow, Regional Research Institute, New Delhi (through mobile outdoor medical care programme), Drug Proving Research Unit, Midnapore and Clinical Research Unit, Jaipur.

The Council has undertaken verification of symptomatology of the following fifty eight drugs.

These also include the drugs proved by the Council which are being clinically verified (denoted by **).

The criteria for selection of verified symptoms of various drugs has been the frequency of the number of patients relieved with the drug for those indications. Only those symptoms that have been verified on more than twenty occasions have been included in this list. A relief index, being the percentage of cases relieved in a group of cases is worked out in symptoms verified in a drug and the symptoms with relief index of more than 75% and verified in less than 50 cases have been denoted in Bold type face, whereas those with relief index of more than 75% and verification in more than 50 cases are denoted in BOLD CAPITALS.

The symptoms that have been relieved by the drug in a large number of patients have been compiled and the same are being given below (region wise). These symptoms have been confirmed from the homoeopathic reference books mentioned below.

Additional symptoms that have been found relieved during the course of treatment have been mentioned separately (denoted by **). These symptoms can be added in the pathogenesis of the drug after verification. Certain surrogates have also been observed which are mentioned in the pathogenesis of the drug.
