

MARVELLOUS MASTER

DR. DYTHA CHANDRASEKHARA SASTRY, VIJAYAWADA

Sweetness for sugar, fragrance for Jasmin and lustre for diamond are natural. Likewise health is also natural property of man. When a diamond is covered with dust, if the dust is removed the diamond will be left with its self-lustre. No other or any special attempt need be made to make it shine, than removing the dust. Any attempt to paint a dusted diamond with enamel to restore its shining, will only be meaningless, as it will not become the natural and original lustre of diamond. It will be futile to attempt introducing lustre into diamond. Painting a dusted diamond is like prescribing purgative for constipation, anaesthetic for pains, B-complex for wasting diseases and antibiotics for infectious diseases.

Dr. Samuel Hahnemann discovered this fact and proved to the entire Medical world that if the cause for ailment is removed, man will be left with his natural and self-property of health. Any attempt to introduce or replace health in the human body is nothing more than a superfluous attempt, of painting a dusted diamond or introducing lustre into diamond. Homœopathy is not a painting attempt; but it is only dynamic cleansing of disease force. After removal of the root cause of disease, the man is left with his natural health, just as a diamond is left with its self-luster after removal of dust covering. Dr. Samuel Hahnemann proved that Homœopathy is a system of cleaning a diamond but not a system of painting dusted diamond.

Ailment for man might be from the time of creation itself. The cure for ailment also should be from time beyond human memory.

This year the Board of Editors of this Journal decided to publish this number in the name of our Great Master. On this occasion let us determine to—at least endeavour—prove one drug each, though not as many as our master did, and become true followers, though not disciples, of our Marvellous Master, Dr. Samuel Hahnemann.
