

CONCEPT OF ONSET AND ANNIHILATION OF PSORA

SRI T. KANILAL, Lucknow.

The master in 1st aphorism of epoch making Organon of Medicine says: "The physician's high and only mission is to restore the sick to health, to cure, as it is termed."

In practising Homoeopathy after giving up Allopathy, in the process of restoring the sick, it took twelve long years to detect psora, the hydra-headed or thousand-headed monster, the mother of all chronic diseases.

Regarding onset (origin) of psora, from master to all the teachers of Homoeopathy, said, that when the law of nature was broken, the man became psoric. The man to become psoric, master again said, the nature was first psoric.

Now the question arises how the law of nature was broken first.

If we take a dip into history with a class outlook, we perceive that the people in the primitive stage used to live in forests in a collective way and used to move from one place to another in search of their livelihood and protection.

The nature forced them to work with each other, fight against the enemy shoulder to shoulder. That was an era of collective life, the primitive classless society, due to inadequate development of science.

By and by science started developing, the means of production developed, yet the nature's law was not broken. It started breaking only when the relation in production changed giving rise to exploitation, exploiters and exploited.

Instead of collective work, there started developing a section of people who started to establish their own interest above the collective interest and ultimately the primitive classless society was broken, the law of nature was broken, and developed a class society. The minority started to exploit the majority, giving rise to evil and perverted thoughts. Their evil and perverted thoughts led to evil and perverted works (action).

On the fertile land of class society the onset and development of psora started. This psora (evil thought) ultimately developed syphilis and sycosis (output of evil action). The heads of these perverted thoughts, to fulfil their perverted urge, used unnatural ways leading to syphilis and sycosis.

At present the brain of all the offspring in this class society is trained to mischievous ways of life, for the class interest of those who are at the top, through their perverted culture and they are spoiled by our films and filmi songs. Unknowingly the children of today, the citizens of tomorrow, cherish the idea of becoming hero/heroine of a film and they act according to a westernised culture.

So in this class society though our utmost goal is to restore the sick to health, yet we cannot reach it. Only we can try to diminish the susceptibility, but are unable to restore the health, because the problem of restoration is linked up with the present social structure.

In future, if a classless society is formed through class struggle where there will be no jealousy, self interest in the people, the source of perverted culture will be annihilated and consequently the process of disease that follows it. The incidence of infection of syphilis and sycosis through improper coition will be eliminated. The persons suffering from the said diseases, the output of psora, will be nipped in the bud, and a day will come when the susceptibility to those diseases will decrease to nil.

That golden day is not far off. The flag of Hahnemannian Homoeopathy will float in the sky, declaring the practical possibility of restoration of sick to health,—the great dream of Master.
